HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 3.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Secretary Rawlins is again attacked by a severe illness.

A special says the question of the constitutionality of the cession of that part of the District of Columbia which includes Alexandria to Virginia, will soon be brought into the Courts. Certain tax-payers who paid taxes to the State will bring suit to recover the same, on the ground that they are still in the District.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Secretary Rawlins is much better to day.

The President has appointed Col. Jesse M Bayles postmaster at Louisville, Ky., vice Dr. Speed, who has been in the office eight years. The appointment, it is stated, is in accordance with a declaration of the President that certain persons who have held office eight years, must give place to others who suffered by the war.

The condition of political affairs in Kentucky has received some attention at a late Cabinet meeting, with a view of changing the principal offices, and to bring incumbents in accordance with the administration.

It is learned from sources deemed reliable that Gen. Canby will proclaim the result of the late election in Virginia, and on the fourth Tuesday thereafter the Legislature will meet. The test oath will not be allowed to act on questions beyond those required by the law preliminary to the recognition of the State by Congress, the latter including the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment.

Commissioner Delano has decided that the tobacco leaves put up in hand and sold at retail for consumption, is subject to a tax of 35 cents per pound, as manufactured tobacco.

Returns from all sections indicate the general financial situation is far more satisfactory than was expected last spring.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—I. A. Bolt, formerly a prominent politician of this city, died yesterday in the lunatic asylum. His insanity was caused by dissipation and disappointment at being defeated for the Mayoralty by Gunther.

A special from New York says that parties in Spanish interest, positively assert the Spanish Minister has made a formal demand on the President for the release of the gunboats under construction and those to be ready for sea this week. An agent is busily engaged in purchasing rifles, revolvers and cutlasses for the crews.

Thurlow Weed has returned and his health is much improved. He says he will take no further part in politics, though he will attend the Republican Convention at Syracuse.

A letter from Florence says the brigands in southern Italy have recently grown very bold. They have robbed several travelers, and two wealthy Englishmen were carried to the hills and held for ransom.

The National Temperance Convention adjourned last night after adopting a platform of principles and an address to the people, prepared by Gerrit Smith, embodying the views set forth in his speech on the day previous. The name finally adopted for the organization was, "The National Temperance party."

Destruction of Railroad Property.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A special from Lawrence, Kansas, says a statement is published sustaining the authenticity of the Journal's report respecting Clark's speech, in which he counselled the destruction of railroad property, which Clark afterwards denied. Thirteen reliable Republicans, former supporters of Clark, made affidavit to the correctness of the report of Clark's speech. It is said the Leaguers have destroyed three thousand railroad ties near Baxter Springs, recently.

All is quiet among the wild Indians in Washita.

Boat Burned.

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—The propeller Roscobel caught fire this morning in the lake, near St. Clair, and was totally lost. The passengers, ten in number, were saved, but lost their baggage. The crew was also saved, except the second engineer, who jumped overboard and was drowned, and a fireman who is missing.

Petroleum.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—The petroleum market is unusually active and excited. Twenty-one vessels are now loading for Europe with 750,000 barrels.

Paper Mill Burned.

BENNINGTON, Sept. 3.—George Bolton Son's paper mill mill was burned to-day: loss, $40,000.

St. Louis Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from the agent of the Kansas Pacific Railroad at Denver, states that 200,000 pounds of Colorado silver ore has been shipped at the end of the road, by wagons, destined to London. It is believed that when the road is completed to Denver an immense amount of rich ore from Colorado will find its way east to Europe for smelting.

Five hundred miles of the extension of the Kansas Pacific Railroad are now under contract, to be completed by January 1st. This will carry the track to Kit Carson on Sandy River, leaving but one hundred and fifty to be finished to Denver. The track-laying on the Cheyenne and Denver Railroad was commenced from Denver a few days since. The entire road will be completed within a year.

Virginia Affairs.

RICHMOND, Sept. 3.—Gov. Walker has returned, but is very reticent about his interview with the President. It is understood, however, and advices from reliable sources state, that the test oath will not be required, and that the Legislature will soon be convened.

RICHMOND, Sept. 3.—There is great rejoicing over the news telegraphed here yesterday. It was expected that on the arrival of Attorney-General Hoar's opinion against the requirements of the test oath Gen. Canby would act, but he did not receive the opinion.

National Capital Convention.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—From correspondence in the hands of the National Capital Convention Committee it appears that Gov. Geary, of Pennsylvania, declines to send delegates to the Convention. In his opinion the people of Pennsylvania are not ready to sanction the move at present. Gov. Baker, of Indiana, favors the move personally, but it is beyond his authority to appoint delegates in the absence of any expression of the people on the subject. Gov. Warmouth, of Louisana, and McClurg of Missouri, announce their intention to appoint full delegates. The Convention will be held if no more than three States are represented.

New Hampshire Appointments.

CONCORD, Sept 3.—The Governor and Council yesterday made the following appointments: A. Bellows, of Concord, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, vice Jared Apsley, resigned on account of age; W. L. Foster, of Concord, to fill a vacancy on the bench, and Oliver Pillsbury, State Commissioner.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 3.—At a meeting of the corporation of Brown University John G. Whittier and Rowland G. Hazard were elected to fill vacancies in the Board of Trustees. The commencement has been changed from September to June.

Prince Arthur.

HALIFAX, Sept. 3.—Prince Arthur left Richmond this forenoon. Salutes were fired all along the route. The party reached Hopewell, where an address was presented to the Prince, who made a reply.

The Ship Laborers' Strike.

QUEBEC, Sept. 3.—The ship laborer's strike continues, not a vessel in port is being worked. The lower portion of town wears the aspect of Sunday The city and water police from Montreal paraded the town, but failed to make any arrests In the afternoon the laborers commenced to mass at Fort mountain hill, and serious disturbances appeared imminent. The troops were called out and the rioters finally dispersed in small bodies.

Railroad Accident.

HUDSON, Sept. 3.—Yesterday the train from Boston ran off the track near Chatham. The switch-jack having been broken, the conductor and firemen were injured and the engine badly smashed.

Senator Fessenden Reported Dying.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept 3.—It is feared that Senator Fessenden will not live through the day

Filibustering in Georgia.

MACON, Sept. 3.—A large number of men have enlisted for the Cuban army at Fort Gaines, Georgia. The Deputy Marshal arrived there to-day, and telegraphed that the citizens are unable to cope with them, and asking for troops. The dispatch has been forwarded to Gen Terry, asking for a company of troops to be sent to the fort by a special train to night The District-Attorney telegraphed to the effect that he will be here in the morning, also the United States Marshal from Savannah. Revenue cutters have been ordered to cruise off the coast to intercept the filibusters if they succeed in getting away. Great excitement exists here, as many who have joined the expedition are young men under age. The U. S. Commissioner's office has been crowded all day with anxious parents to hear of the authorities stopping the party, which had a special boat to take them down the river Apalachicola. They are reported to be under command of Major F. H. Ford, formerly of Gen. Lee's staff.

Stockton Dispatch.

STOCKTON, Sept. 4.—A man named L Young, attempted to commit suicide in a barber shop on Center street, at a late hour last night, by cutting his throat with a razor. The cut is not a dangerous one, and he may recover.

A fire originated in a house on California street, near Washington, this evening. Owing to the promptness of the Fire Department, but little damage was done.

The vote of this county at the recent election, will be officially counted by the Board of Supervisors next Monday.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Sep. 2.—Salad, solicitor for Lady Byron's family, states in the London journals that Mrs. Stowe's Atlantic Monthly article is not authentic. He states that nothing is communicated by recollections of conversations had thirteen years since, and the impression derived from manuscripts read under great excitement. Conceding that Mrs. Stowe's narrative contains a complete account of the relations between Lord and Lady Byron, he protests against it as a gross breach of trust and confidence, as inconsistent with Mrs. Stowe's recommendations to Lady Byron, and in violation of the express terms of her will. Lady Byron's reprisentatives and descendants absolutely disclaim all countenance of the article, which was published without their privilege or consent. The News thinks Mrs. Stowe's article does not contain the whole truth but is true as far as it goes. It cannot see how she has done anything but made a fair and valuable contribution to veracity and exactitude of history.

A dispatch to the Herald states that Williams' letter claiming that the Oxford crew could have beaten the Harvards by many more lengths is regarded as a specimen of them.

Public opinion continues skeptical in regard to Napoleon's health. The impression prevails that his real condition is concealed. This is not likely to be weakened until the Emperor himself is seen driving into Paris.

DUBLIN, Sept. 2.—The Roman Catholic Bishops met here and adopted resolutions demanding an exclusive Catholic College endowment by the State; division of the property; royal and endowed school; alteration of the Queen's College to a denominational institution, and a general land bill for Ireland.

The funeral of the Fenian, Dalton, took place to-day at Glasnevin. The procession had about twenty men wearing green emblems.

ROME, Sept. 3.—Papal troops continue to arrive.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A Herald special from London says advices from the Continent report that a convention of German Bishops has assembled and organized in Bavaria, with the object to consider in hierarchical conclave what course the body will adopt with reference to the Papal summons calling the members to attend the Ecumenical council, as well as the line of representative conduct which they will pursue A very large attendance is present. The proceedings of the conclave are secret, but the Bishops evince a disposition to adopt liberal and independent views.

NEVADA.

VIRGINIA, Sept. 4.—Joseph Heagos, aged 32 years, a native of Ohio, died suddenly at Weston's mill, below Silver City, last evening, of hemorrhage of the lungs.

Our Jewish citizens celebrate their New Year by religious services at the Masonic Hall to-morrow evening.

The Money Problem

Under this caption the San Jose (Cal.) Mercury of August 19th has this:

They tell us there are nine millions of gold coin in the United States Treasury at San Francisco! What if there are? Don't it belong there? If Government owes anybody here anything, why, that's another matter, and a legitimate subject of complaint; but the coin in the Treasury was paid for duties on goods, most of which long since went into the market, were transmitted to the interior and sold to consumers, whose money for the same has found its way back into the coffers of those same merchants with profits added. If the country actually owes the city a large amount of money, why, that is a legitimate cause of stringency; but we do not believe the statements a certain big commercial paper maker as to the amount of this indebtedness. Our San Jose merchants, we know, have to make prompt payment, and recently the San Francisco dealers have been more than usually urgent in their demands; some of them unreasonably so, considering the comparatively small amounts due, and the undoubted solvency of the debtors. Some of the commercial editors of San Francisco have proposed a remedy for this portion of the present unattainable capital of the merchants. What do you suppose it is? Why, the country merchants are to give their notes, or interest, for the payment of their indebtedness, and the San Francisco dealers are to sell the notes for what they can get at the bank, at a time when the banks pretend they have no money to cash notes

A fine project this—for the bankers, who no doubt edly suggested the project to their tools, the commercial reporters. They "have no money," but they are willing to buy good paper at a discount, thus turning their "respectable institutions" into sharpers' dens, sharing shops for the fleecing of those who have no ready money. But it is not true that the interior is so greatly in debt to the city—at least twelve millions, the Alta says That these statements are greatly exaggerated is evident from the fact that ever after making them, the editors do not base their arguments upon them, but all run off with the idea that the Government is oppressing the people, and yesterday's Alta charges the Treasury Department with gross favoritism, corruption, etc., because one San Francisco firm having, by its New York agents, deposited $200,000 in coin in the Sub-Treasury at New York, was allowed to draw out a like amount from the Sub-Treasury in San Francisco and other firms and bankers who had proposed to deposit $2,000,000, but had not done so, were not allowed to draw from the Sub-Treasury here. The Alta says: "A more bare-faced attempt to use the public money for the private purposes of the attaches of the Treasury was never attempted in any community." Yet it does not pretend to affirm that any money except the $200,000 was paid into Treasury at New York, or actually offered for payment. They had applied for permission to make the offer: that is all, and we opine there is no law to prevent their making such an offer without permission. What was required at the Treasury was money, not talk.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

A New York correspondent says Mrs. H. B. Stowe has been engaged to write up, at $500 a column, the "true story" of all the separated wives of distinguished individuals. They will be published in the Ledger.

The Treasurer of the Lincoln Monument fund reports that he has received twenty-one thousand dollars on account and invested the balance in 5 20 bonds. A plaster cast of Mr. Lincoln has been approved by the committee and sent to a foundry to be cast in bronze.

The editor of the Bristol (Tenn.) News says it is very certain that but little of the Confederate correspondence ever fell into the hands of the Federals, and that he saw that which is probably most valuable sealed and placed within the vaults of a Montreal bank not two years ago, where unless it has been removed within twelve months, it remains, secure against every intruder.

The Empress Eugenie will have a retinue of about thirty persons when she visits this country, next year, among whom will be the Prince Imperial. She will visit Boston, Newport, New York, Saratoga, and Niagara Falls and perhaps California. "It has been one of my dreams to visit America," says the Empress, "and next year I shall see New York and Niagara Falls."

The Siamese twins have come back from England, and are still bound in their bond of flesh, notwithstanding the stories of how the great surgeons of Europe were going to make them two separate men. They are now fifty-eight years old, and express their determination to go down to death together in a quiet way in North Carolina, where their families now reside. One has nine children—the other eight.

The cotton crop is considered as safe to yield three million bales, which is half a million more than last year. This would leave two millions for shipment, after deducting one million for home consumption. At 25 cents per pound, the whole crop would be worth to the planters $300,000,000, and furnish exchange in Europe equal to $200,000,000. This is more money than the South ever before received from the largest crop grown.

Prince Arthur has been "Jenkinsed." A Herald correspondent says: "He bears a striking resemblance to the Prince of Wales when he was here, and the close likeness to her Majesty is so marked as to be distinguished at once. He is tall and slender, with a fine and faultless combed head of brown hair, and his youthful face is ornamented with an English pattern of whiskers and mustache, highly creditable to the physical development of a young man of 19.

A special dispatch from Nashville to the Louisville Journal states that a straight-out conservative will certainly be sent to the United States Senate, and the impression now is that Emerson Etheridge is the coming man. Andy Johnson will fight desperately to secure the place, but the opposition against him will be formidable. The seat in the United States Senate, which the just elected Legislature of Tennessee is to fill, is that of Mr. Fowler, whose term does not expire for two years, that is, the 3d of March, 1871.

New Jersey has had a most palpable material blessing bestowed upon it this year, in the shape of a peach crop of unexpected luxuriance. It probably exceeds any since that of 1865, which was considered wonderful. In 1867 there was a good yield. In 1868 the crop was almost a complete failure. It is believed that the crop of this year will exceed that of 1867 by 500,000 baskets, reaching the aggregate of 3,000,000 baskets. Some dealers estimate as high as 4,000,000

A Spaniard who has won 300,000 francs by gambling at Spa is kept in solitary confinement by his wife to prevent him from spending or gambling it away.

The New York Star thinks that Byron collars should hereafter have a new name, "for if ever a man's choler was up, Byron's must be about those times."

One of the Georgia editors objects to the proposed editorial convention in that State. It says the affair will only be a big drunk, and "we can get drunk at home, on whisky that we are used to."

Col. Fitzpatrick killed his wife the other day in South Carolina, and attended her funeral two days afterward. A real gentleman never forgets his good breeding, even under the most trying circumstances.

A physician gave a young lady in Illinois a prescription "to be taken before going to bed." It was a nauseous dose, and the lady did not wish to take it. She saved her conscience and escaped the medicine by not going to bed at all until she had recovered, taking her usual rest on a couch.

The New York Democrat, which is not noted for purity of thought or language, in discussing the new Lord Byron scandal, "profoundly regrets that a woman of Mrs. Stowe's undoubted talent should have been led through the poisoned mental atmosphere she must inhale in living where and as she does, to write," etc.

The Republicans and Democrats of New Orleans are happy over the fact of Gen. Longstreet, the Surveyor of that port, having appointed several colored men to positions in his department. The Republicans are glad on general principles, and the Democrats are tickled because they expect the negroes to carry them into power.

The Philadelphia Press says: "While the Democratic papers are troubling themselves because they say General Ben Butler is to go to the Senate in place of Henry Wilson from Massachusetts, for the purpose of meeting A. J., General Butler and General are quietly cruising and fishing together along the coast in the same boat."

E. A. Pollard on Jeff. Davis and Wife.

Pollard, in his Life of Jefferson Davis just published, gives the following sketch of the great rebel:

"We shall see that his mind was unbalanced; that his judgment was at once shallow and perverse; that, though his life was not stained with dishonor, it was often steeped in petty meanness; that, an object to wise counselors, he was yet an easy prey to flatterers; that, overtaxing his time and almost wearing life out with incessant labors, he had yet no faculty of business; that he was yet trifling and whimsical, a creator of nothings; that fragility, persistent repellant of advice, the approach to his vanity was always open, and the avenues to his patronage closed by a conceit as easily bribed as by an obstinacy that was inexorable. Finally, we shall see how a mistake, capable of better things in another and quieter career, was wholly unequal to the trials of a great revolution; how an ambition intoxicated by [illegible], at last, malign and paltry; and how Jefferson Davis, who might have contributed a distinguished name in a lesser cause, or, at least, not have had contributed there to unwrite his weakness, fell under an accumulation of [illegible] and ended his career in unequaled ruin and [illegible]."

In another part of the work the writer treats us to a portrait of Mrs. Davis. After charging that Mr. Davis was the most uxorious of men, and [illegible] always under the domination of his wife, he says:

"It was surprising, indeed, that a man of his fine [illegible] organism, a very type of nervous dilettantism should have fallen so much under the dominion of a woman who was at once coarse and physical in her passions, and in whom the defects of nature had been repaired neither by grace of mind nor charm of conversation. Mrs. D. was a homely, [illegible] had much more of the [illegible] than of the [illegible]. Her complexion was tawny, even to the point of mulattoism; a woman loud and coarse in her manners; full of social self-assertion; not one of her sex who would have been suspected to be the [illegible] of a delicate man like Mr. Davis. Whimsical in the health [illegible] although she [illegible] submission to the force of her character.

"We find no one case [illegible] more singular [illegible] during a [illegible] Notwithstanding [illegible] labor which they [illegible] we are all [illegible] of many instances as were the [illegible] of early birth and this evidently because the mind has enlarged, and new wants have been created. Perhaps the need for new inventions is felt nowhere so much as in the household, and a grievous burden rests upon at least one half of the race, which is more sensibly felt, even in other industries and arts, human ingenuity has brought automatic labor into successful operation, and it is intended that the household shall enjoy corresponding results. In this we are [illegible] of [illegible] higher of the wealthy, but of the great middle class. Upon investigation in the [illegible] of the household it will be seen that the deficiency arises from a want of motive power to perform labor now supplied by muscles [illegible] to the task. The work for inventors is the discovery of a power which shall be cheap, so compact that it will not be unsightly, and which can be used in all places. We need a philosophic and practical history of inventions. It would show, we think, that progress commenced in the obvious, and that it has been gradually approaching to the [illegible]. The higher class of inventions [illegible] deep research in every department of human study, that each may contribute something. The inventive and the [illegible] powers are akin, and the more we investigate their relations the more will this part of the nature of man appear to partake of those attributes which called the world itself into [illegible]. However [illegible] is to be expected from an individual during the extension of his [illegible], we ought not to look for one age to accomplish much. To the coming children, work and [illegible] for and great cure must be allotted, that they, too, may spread out branches, and that at no remote period of time they may, by superior powers, bring out of the, invisible, despite unwilling [illegible], such things as elude our weaker grasp."

THE ORIGIN OF THE YOSEMITE VALLEY.—How was this curious freak of nature formed? is a question that every person will ask. It is a puzzler to the imagination and baffles even the scientific student. Prof. Whitney of the State survey discusses the question elaborately in his admirable volume upon the Yosemite, the Big Trees and the High Sierra, which, with its maps, should be the companion of every one who visits those regions. He rejects, as impossible, the idea of water having worn it out, or that it was the work of a glacier; or that it was split open by a convulsion of nature; but concludes as the only practicable supposition that the bottom dropped out! There is no other way of accounting for what is gone but that it sank below. It is not carried down stream; it does not remain in the valley—there would be no valley if it did—there are but comparatively small deposits of rock in the valley under the walls—no more than the waste, by frost and ice and water, of a few generations at the most; and, indeed, there seems no other supposition that meets the mystery than that the missing rocks are swallowed up below. It would appear so, as if the chasm had not long been filled up to its present point, and that originally, and until within a comparatively recent period, the whole valley was a grand deep lake. This is a peculiar theory; it applies but rarely, to the strange forms of nature scattered over the earth's surface; but Yosemite is a peculiar phenomenon—it justifies, it indeed demands, a singular explanation, and no other fits it so reasonably as this.—"Our New West" by Samuel Bowles.

WONDERFUL SURGICAL DISCOVERY.—The British Medical Association has commenced its annual session in Leeds. In the section on surgery a very curious and interesting practical application of a physiological fact has been exhibited by Dr. R. B. W. Richardson, F. R. S. It has long been known to surgeons that an injury rapidly inflicted is not attended with suffering, and on this principal Dr. Richardson has constructed what he calls a "painless knife." It consists of a keen circular blade, so connected with watchwork that it can be made to revolve with very great rapidity. It is found that when a speed of twenty-five complete revolutions in a second has been obtained, the edge of the knife may be applied to the animal body, and that it will divide the soft parts without pain or even consciousness. The lower animals are used to display what can be done on man, and Dr. Richardson was able to cut the ears of a rabbit in strips while the little creature was contentedly munching green stuff, in entire ignorance of the way it was being injured. Unfortunately the knife, the only one of its kind at present existing, was accidentally broken by [illegible] to whom it was [illegible] for [illegible] ion, and thus the experiments with it were brought to a premature conclusion.

of Chemistry, is one of the most valuable articles in the world when properly applied. It not only prevents the decay of wood, but conduces greatly to the healthfulness of the buildings, whether of wood or of stone. Out buildings and fences, when not painted, should be supplied once or twice a year with whitewash, which should be prepared in the following way:

Take a clean watertight barrel or other suitable cask and put into it a half bushel of lime. Slack it by pouring water over it boiling hot, and in sufficient quantity to cover it five inches deep, and stir it briskly till thoroughly slacked. When the slacking has been thoroughly effected, dissolve it in water, and add two pounds of sulphate of zinc and one of salt, these will cause the wash to harden and prevent its cracking, which gives an unseemly appearance to the work. If desireable, a beautiful cream color may be communicated to the above wash, by adding three pounds of yellow ochre, or a good pearl or lead color by the addition of lamp vine or ivory black. For fawn color, add four pounds of umber, Turkish or American—the cheapest—one pound of Indian red, one pound of common lamp black. For common stone color, add four pounds raw umber and two pounds of lamp black. This wash may be applied with common whitewash brushes, and will be found much superior both in appearance and durability to the common whitewash.

Grant's Despotism.

The Democracy, as an Eastern journal observes, must feel quite disappointed that President Grant has not taken any step, thus far, in the way of establishing the despotism which they declared, last year, would be the consequence of his election. They felt certain—at least so they said—that in case he were elected President, he would, after attaining power, begin the work of subverting our free institutions, overthrowing the Constitution, and establishing a Cæsarism in which he should play the part of Dictator or Emperor. They pretended to be very much afraid of these results; and Democratic newspapers and stump orators attempted to frighten the people with terrible pictures of Grant's schemes and purposes.

We suppose they are now beginning to get over their apprehensions in regard to this matter. Grant has in no way interfered with the constitutional order of things. In all its Departments, the Government is carried on as usual. Not even the sharpest Democrat has discovered any plot, or any sign of any conspiracy. The army is performing its usual duties in the various parts of our vast territory, and we hear of no military cabals, or intrigues against the liberties of the people. We should think everybody must now feel quite assured that the Constitution is as safe as possible, and that never, in our history, had we less prospect of the establishment of a despotism.

ENDORSEMENTS.

OLYMPIA, W. T., March 27, 1869.

C. A. WHITE, Esq.—Dear Sir; Having examined your original map, embracing that portion of Washington Territory west of the Cascade Range, I desire to add my testimony to its value. Having been engaged for a number of years in the surveys from Cape Flattery to the Head of Puget Sound, I have examined this portion of your map more critically than others, and I take pleasure in vouching for its general correctness.

This map will fill a want that has long been felt, not only among the residents of this Territory, but others, who are desirous of obtaining information of this portion of the "Far West," and I trust that we shall soon see it in a form suitable for general distribution.

JAS. S. LAWSON,
Asst. U. S. C. S.

We endorse the annexed opinion of Jas. S. Lawson, Esq., and will add that Mr. Chas. A. White is a practical surveyor, and has had access to the township maps in the two Land Offices in this Territory, as also the Coast Survey charts; and we can vouch for his map of Washington Territory, west of the Cascade Range of Mountains, as being correct, and the only good map of the same territory that has been made.

WASCO.—As a general rule, the public which, like a corporation, has no soul, cares less than the value of a pin about the personal experiences of anybody, unless that body happen to be Somebody. As we happen to be Nobody, we shall have just as little to say about Nobody as possible in the following which relates to persons and things in Wasco; indeed, if it had happened that Somebody had been where we have been, seen what we have seen, heard what we have heard, and so-forth, we should have been quite happy to write Somebody's impressions of Wasco and the Wascos, instead of troubling our readers with where Nobody has been and what Nobody saw and heard. To go directly at what we have to say, [illegible]ing more than a fortnight ago, we ran away from [illegible] work with a view of resting a few days from the uninteresting drudgery of more than two years upon a daily [illegible] that is how we came to be among the Wascos in Wasco and to have something to say about Wasco and the Wascos. It is hardly necessary we suppose, to say that we went to the Dalles by the O. S. N. Co. [illegible] and railroad, inasmuch as that is the [illegible] route; but a deep obligation would be [illegible] should we omit to acknowledge the generous [illegible] of the company in giving us the "right of way," with the freedom of steamers and railway, with "bed and board" included, and all that sort of thing; and we should forever look upon ourself as an ungrateful cuss if we should neglect to credit the officers and [illegible] of the steamers and railway for a thousand and one acts of courtesy, more or less. The least we can say is that they are pleasure phellows and the right men in the right [illegible] so far as a mere outsider and passenger may know.

The [illegible]y of the Columbia has never been alluded to, we [illegible] by travelers that way. There are, however, [illegible]ssibly tall specimens of it at the Cascades and both above and below. In fact, it lies around loose and in [illegible]-inhospitable. Watkins, the picture man, engraved and carried away several fragments of it, five or three years since and several other people, within the [illegible] of the "oldest inhabitant," have devoured it with their eyes, and drank it into their poetic souls, with [illegible] however, sensibly affecting the supply. There is, or was there yet, of one sort or other, to fill all of all the nature-worshipping people in the world and all the eyes of all the rest of mankind. If we only had a [illegible]ize pea, now, dipped in carmine and [illegible] native and outline, and all that sort of unthinkable things set to rhyme or music, we might be able to essay a description; but it should never be [illegible] with any less poetic appliances. The writer [illegible] down mere facts and figures, talks of only distances, heights and depths, tuitless and cent-less, and such like, will never succeed better than the individual who spoke of the cascades and the ground old mountainpiles on either side, as a "dog-[illegible] creek and a right smart chance of rock." No, we [illegible] not mention the scenery.

We pass the O. S. N. [illegible] soon and thereafter we glide [illegible] of Wasco, on the right. At the head of the rapids are the terminus of the old Dalles railroad, built many years ago and [illegible] than an opposition line of transportation, but now in the last stages of dilapidation and decay, and [illegible]. [illegible]s, two or three of which are [illegible] in a tolerable state of preservation, the [illegible] been abandoned to the owls and bats. Above these are [illegible] settlements nestling in little [illegible] the mountains' base, where the "expanse" [illegible] tanky for either [illegible] amenities or [illegible]. The soil, however, is [illegible] and in fruits and [illegible] the tillers gather a silver dollar [illegible] for their [illegible] melons and peaches and the [illegible] of his cuisine. As we approach the Dalles, [illegible] become more numerous and more extensively containing two, three or four [illegible] It must be confessed they are rather [illegible] of arable acres and quite indiscernible. That these settlers remain upon such little [illegible] and some to be well off in worldly effects, is [illegible] which presents themselves to every [illegible] up the Columbia. They do it, however, [illegible] three hundred and sixty-five times in each [illegible] most solemn and emphatic manner, that they [illegible] situations with any Webfoot or Tar-[illegible]. Perhaps they wouldn't; perhaps [illegible]

[illegible] was once one of the most pretentious burgs [illegible] and being, many years ago, the great depot [illegible] least shipping, for all all the mining re[illegible] the east, north and south, its pretensions were [illegible] extravagant. But the O. S. N. Co. built [illegible] to Celilo, the head of navigation was re[illegible] up the river, and the glory of the Dalles [illegible] what's said glory may now be, is a ques[illegible] the [illegible] or any other man, for the [illegible] it was to exist as the inter[illegible] a good share of the produce [illegible] and the Boise, [illegible] now [illegible] in connection with side [illegible] a quicker and cheaper [illegible] route. There is no more [illegible] of trade and transportation in all the [illegible] the O. S. N. Co. [illegible] and all the towns cut short in their [illegible], have to look upon the [illegible] of the agricultural and [illegible] al[illegible] ing them. Dalles is, however, yet a [illegible] being quite as centrally located [illegible] one, in a large district of country [illegible] growing lands and inexhaustible [illegible] used yet to be developed into one [illegible] of the richest [illegible] city as well as the chief [illegible] of Wasco [illegible] to the depot and buildings be[illegible] O. S. N. The country for a hundred [illegible] southward from the Dalles and all along [illegible] Deschutes, is cut by ever living mountain [illegible] valley thus formed offering farms to the [illegible] to mouth. Very many of these [illegible] habitingly productive—are already occupied, [illegible] many yet remain to be taken. Even the [illegible] and hill tops have within the last [illegible] years, been found to be productive, needing [illegible] irrigation as can be easily had from almost [illegible] stream. As an instance of this kind of [illegible] mention that, lately, much of that high [illegible] between Barlow's Gate and the Eagle [illegible] which the old immigrants will well remember, [illegible] and converted into productive farms [illegible] through the simple means of irri[illegible] combined and dog addition in which [illegible] upon any part of the district from Three [illegible] now the region is beginning to b[illegible] The great future wealth of Wasco lies, however, [illegible] in its pasturage. venerable Moriah to the snow-capped Mount Hood. Are there human natures so obtuse as to wish to see such venerable relics of antique worship changed into others of the fleeting, flimsy, frivolous fashion of the day? How thrilling to the religious Jew and Christian the voice of that cornet, the symbol of the powerful sound of the cornet heard on the giving of law at Sinai ("And the voice of the cornet grew stronger and stronger, Moses spoke and the Lord responded with thunder"—Exodus, 19-19) and that sound which is symbolically spoken of to be heard on the day of judgment.

The places of worship are: the Synagogue, on Fifth street, near Stark street, and of the new congregation, till their Synagogue will be finished, at the Washington Guard Armory, Stark street. Preaching about 10 A. M., we suppose.

STEAMER "RANGER" BURNED.—We learn that the steamboat Ranger was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday night at Sauvies Island. She was on her way to this city, but the night came on so dark that Capt. Fisher concluded to land, tie up and wait for daylight. About an hour after the passengers and crew had gone to bed the steamer was discovered to be on fire. When discovered, the flames had gained too much headway to be checked, and nothing could be done except to secure the safety of the passengers, among whom were several women and children. In going about the boat to make sure that nobody remained on board asleep, Capt. Fisher was badly burned. All were saved, and we heard of no other personal harm than that which befell the Captain. The fire originated, as is supposed, from imperfect banking of the fire under the boiler, after landing. The boat is a total loss, except such machinery as may be recovered from the wreck. A crew went down in a scow, yesterday, to get out whatever may be found of value.

PERSONAL.—J. S. Smith, M. C., has been spending a few days at Salem, visiting his constituents preparatory to return to his official duties at Washington.

The Unionist says Senator Corbett is expected at Salem during this week.

Senator Williams goes to Salem this week, to visit the Indian Reservations with Superintendent Meacham.

Mr. Roots, M. C. from Arkansas, returned Saturday evening from a visit to Puget Sound.

Rev. C. B. Bonnell, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Salem, will leave this morning for a visit to the East.

Mr. A. A. McCully, President of the P. T. Co., accompanied by his wife and daughter, started for the East, overland, on Friday.

FROM YAMHILL.—A correspondent at Lafayette, writes, Sept. 2d: "One-fourth of the wheat crop of Yamhill county is out in the field, all damaged some, while that which was standing and ripe is greatly damaged; that which was cut and bunched or badly stacked, is ruined."

"A man known as 'Jim Jack' was committed to jail two days ago for assault with a deadly weapon on Eli Brownson. This makes five in our jail—three of the Hesses, Bean and Jim Jack. An effort is being made to have a special term of the Court in the last week of September, to try them."

DAMAGE TO THE CROPS.—"A friend writing from Linn county informs us that a large amount of wheat, standing uncut and a great deal in bunches, in Linn county and on Albany Prairie, is nearly ruined by the late warm rains, which have sprouted it. Some specimens of damaged grain are exhibited in Albany. On Rev. Mr Geary's place there is one hundred acres so situated. People have depended very much on headers, and permitted the wheat to stand indefinitely, waiting for them to come. Of a great part of this there is no hope and the owners have not hogs enough to feed it to."

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR.—We learn through Mr. Jamison, the Forest Grove stage man, that there are now in training on the Washington county fair grounds, twelve horses, among which are Jack Miner, Portland, Misfortune, Legal Tender and Old Mother. About fifteen others are expected to arrive. The track is in excellent condition. The society is using every exertion to make the fair successful. The Secretary informs us that the price of licenses for provision and show stands, etc., will be twenty dollars.

THE MCMINNVILLE NEWSPAPER.—We learn that Mr. W. A. McPherson, the purchaser of the McMinnville Courier, has arrived at McMinnville and taken possession of the office. He will change the name of the paper to The Pacific Blade, from which it may be inferred that McPherson intends to cut his way through thick and thin to success. We hope he will do it. The first issue of the Blade will appear in about ten days or two weeks.

ELBOWS OUT OFF.—On Saturday Mr. Robinson, employed in the upper sawmill, lost the ends of two fingers by an accident. He was engaged in assisting to move a log or timber, and while pushing against it placed one hand on the carriage railway track. Just as he did so, another man, who did not observe this, started the car and the wheel passing over Mr. Robinson's fingers crushed the ends of two of them off.

OVERLAND.—Hon. Logan H. Roots will leave this morning for the Dalles and thence overland to the East. He has traveled considerably through the Walla-Walla Valley, has been to Puget Sound, and now proposes to see something of Western Oregon and Idaho before returning to his duties at Washington. Visitors like him, who insist upon seeing the country, will be likely to do us some good when they get back among their neighbors.

THE DIFFERENCE.—It is a little curious that during all the time when for nearly two weeks there was scarcely a day here without rain, there were only a couple of real rainy days at the Dalles. The Webfoot may, however, console himself with the reflection that the country east of the mountains needed the rain it didn't get, as much as we didn't need the rain we did get.

COURTS.—The U. S. District Court will convene this morning, pursuant to adjournment.

The County Court will begin its regular monthly term, to-day.

The Supreme Court of the State will open its semi-annual term at Salem to-day.

BROWNSVILLE WOOLEN MILLS.—The Herald says: "These mills which, for some time past have been idle, owing to sundry law suits culminating in sundry sheriff sales, are having their machinery replaced and put in order, two machinists having gone up during the week for that purpose."

RIVER IMPROVEMENT.—The dredger was towed up Friday morning to Swan Island for the purpose of cleaning out the channel at that place. The work will be commenced at the lower end of the bar. The channel at the mouth of the river has been completed, and it is thought that it will now remain open.

A CATHOLIC MISSIONARY.—We learn that Rev. Father Winnegar, a noted Catholic Missionary, just out from the East to the Pacific coast, is expected to arrive from California during the present week. He will officiate at the Catholic Church in this city next Sunday.

ADJOURNED.—The annual convocation of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in session in this city during the last week, adjourned Saturday evening. During the coming year, quarterly sessions will be held at the various mission stations.

OREGON PATENTS.—The Mining and Scientific Press reports the following patents, Aug. 17: Photographic Plate Holder, Joseph Buchtel, Portland, Oregon; Lamp Burner, Perry Prettyman, Paradise Spring Farm, Oregon.

RAILROAD BRIDGE.—The Enterprise says: "The Oregon Central Railroad Company, east side, has a force at work at the Clackamas, preparing for the speedy construction of the railroad bridge across that river."

FINED.—The woman who, on Friday evening, kicked up particular thunder in a store on Front street, was tried on Saturday before Justice Bull, for assault and battery, and was fined five dollars and costs.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We acknowledge the receipt from Mr. Minto, Corresponding Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, of a complimentary ticket to the approaching annual fair.

RUN OVER.—On Saturday afternoon a Chinaman was run over by a buggy on Second street and seriously injured, one of his legs being broken above the knee.

BUILDING STONE.—The schooner Klickamine arrived Saturday evening with another cargo of stone for the U. S. postoffice building.

BRIGHT AGAIN.—The weather, which for a space did mist, is now clear, bright and warm again.

A statistical chap says the hands of magazine readers in this country travel 12,000 miles a year in cutting leaves.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT 6, 1869.

Look on This Picture, and on This.

Just now small politicians and interested agitators are fond of presenting a fearful picture of the condition of the working classes of our country. These classes comprise nineteen-twentieths of our population, and here the country's reliance for its defence, its prosperity and its advancement. The picture of their condition as presented by politicians who hope to use their discontent for personal and party aggrandizement wants no circumstance of oppression and and injustice to complete it. But it is cheering to turn from this picture to a contemplation of the actual condition of the people of our country. In general we find among the industrial classes comparative prosperity, intelligence and happiness. But for partisan newspapers and noisy orators, a large majority of them would be entirely unaware of their "wretched" condition, and would not know that their self-appointed champions, the leaders of a condemned political party, who have long been prospecting in vain for something to make party capital of, had thought it necessary to make this exhibition of zeal in their behalf. If it could be believed that our working people generally are in the forlorn and miserable condition represented by those who are making so much noise about it, their tales would move the very stones to mutiny to redress their wrongs. And the reason why these bitter complaints fall upon comparatively deaf ears, and fail to move even that large class whose regard for human rights goes before laws, traditions, and every thing save what justice require, is that the case is not stated truly and people of all classes who have eyes to see and ears to hear, know it. Observation shows every one that these times do not bear excessively hard on the laboring and producing classes. That there are instances to the contrary is undoubtedly true, but instances of a like kind occur in every age. Throughout the country at this time there is general comfort and prosperity. If there have been times when the general condition and prospects of the people were better, so there have been times when their condition and prospects were far worse. Some of the strikes which have recently occurred have undoubtedly proceeded from a purpose to remedy real evils and to adjust more equitably the relations between laborers and employers; and in this respect the strikers have met with considerable success. But the principal strikes we have heard of—those among the coal miners—have grown out of a determination to make coal scarce, to limit the supply and to force up the price. A policy of this sort is directly antagonistic to the interests of the poorer classes. It is the poor and not the rich who must suffer from a combination which by keeping up the price of so indispensable an article as coal; and those who encourage such a policy are not the friends but the enemies of the people. When we observe the manner in which restless agitators are thus inciting a policy at variance alike with the laws of trade and with all human experience, a policy which is necessarily mischievous in its consequences, and injurious chiefly to those whom its authors profess to serve, we see the force of the declaration, that it is never safe to meddle with great things.

When workingmen, wherever labor is united with capital, demand a part of the profits out of all proportion to the capital upon which they are based, they every move which labor may make to obtain a more equitable adjustment is entitled to [illegible] unions may be made important in establishing these results, and may do a great deal to hold in check the tendency which capital has from its superior advantages to get more than its share. But it is only when laborers stand on the right ground that they can be instruments to accomplish this. Some of them have recently promulgated the dogma of currency, wild theories of taxation, reckless and revolutionary doctrines of the obligation of government, and in fact untenable schemes and propositions which cover nearly the whole field of political and social science. We do not hesitate to say that laboring men by such means as this do themselves and their cause more injury than could be effected by the opposition of capital even if capitalists were, as we are told, their worst enemies. No amount of crude theories can help them. Nor can anything be accomplished by an exclusively belligerent process. Labor and capital cannot fight each other with profit to either side. The most that labor can do is to effect a better understanding, to obtain compromises and bring differences to an accommodation. The experience of five hundred years' efforts to adjust the relations of workmen and their employers has shown that this is not a problem to be solved off-hand by a series of resolutions and vigorous denunciation of one class by the other, but by mutual cession and amicable arrangement. Laws cannot accomplish the ends desired. When labor relies on legislation for the protection and advancement of its interests it is relying on the most uncertain, deceptive and inefficient of resources. "Inasmuch as I know," said the Mayor of Nottingham, England—who had worked his way from a factory operative to that position—"what it is to labor with the hands long hours and for small wages, and to practice self-denial withal, I am emboldened to declare from experience that he who practice self-denial will ordinarily obtain for himself what neither acts of Parliament nor any foreign aids can secure—a healthy body, an independent mind, domestic happiness and general esteem." Here we have the true idea for the American laborer, whose facilities for acquiring domestic comfort, social consideration and competency if not independence of fortune, are the envy of workingmen the world over. And millions from Europe are still flocking to America to share in this prosperity. They are coming in such numbers as never came before. They, evidently, do not believe the stories which are told of the wretched condition of the people of America.

Our Bonds in Holland.

The amount invested in United States securities by the people of Holland may be surmised from the statement of a European correspondent of an Eastern journal that a single house in Amsterdam recently received coupons for payment of interest on American bonds to the extent of over seven million dollars. The Dutch are a people who are not slow at arriving at conclusions on matters affecting their own interests, and the fact that they hold our bonds to the extent of nearly $500,000,000 shows that they have confidence in the integrity and stability of our Government. It is well known that the Dutch are among the most thrifty and saving people in Europe. They have loaned a great deal of their capital to foreign works of utility, and several of our States are much indebted to them for assistance thus rendered. In our war of independence when Congress could get no money from any other source, it obtained specie from Holland. In New York and Pennsylvania many of the old works of internal improvement were constructed by Dutch capital, and that people have always shown sagacity in making their investments. We have no doubt but they will find their present investments in United States bonds quite as safe and profitable as their former financial transactions with this country, notwithstanding the threats of repudiation which are uttered by a faction among us. Our bonds are a favorite investment in Holland with farmers and other persons of small means, as well as with great capitalists. Under this state of facts it seems not a little singular that the repudiation Democracy of this country can have the hardihood to look an honest Dutchman in the face.

William Pitt Fessenden.

Latest dispatches indicate that ere this, Senator Fessenden is no more. During a long public life his abilities have commanded the esteem of all men of all parties, and his death will leave a great vacancy in the high body where he has had a seat so long.

Mr. Fessenden was born at Boscawen, New Hampshire, October 6, 1806; graduated at Bowdoin College, Maine; studied and practiced law; was a member of the Maine Legislature for many years; was elected to the United States Senate in 1854; was re-elected in 1859, and resigned his seat in July, 1864, when appointed Secretary of the Treasury; resigned his seat in the Cabinet in 1865, and was re-elected to the United States Senate the same year. His term would have expired in 1871.

For many years Mr. Fessenden had the entire confidence of the people of Maine. But that confidence was seriously impaired by what was deemed his inconsistent conduct in refusing to vote for the impeachment of Andrew Johnson. He was recovering from this, but it probably would have prevented his re-election. It is not for us to impugn his action on that occasion. His countrymen may leave his reputation in this affair to history, and remember with gratitude the service he rendered to a glorious cause in the days when that cause was in need of friends.

The Vice-President.

Vice President Colfax will probably be here to-day. By his arrival we shall have another addition to the number of distinguished persons who have visited us this summer. It should gratify us to think that they find Oregon not so very far distant from the eastern confines of the Republic, after all!

No President of the United States except Grant was ever in Oregon, and no Vice-President was ever here except Colfax. But Grant was here long before he ever dreamed of being President, and has not been here since; while Colfax, who was here before he was Vice-President, now comes among us again, bearing the title and dignities of that position. As Oregon is honored by the presence of the second officer of the Republic, so she will honor him. Vice-President Colfax is one of the very few men who both achieve success and deserve the success they achieve. His close affiliation with the people, his intimate knowledge of what an enlightened public judgment will demand and approve, his promptness and tact as a popular leader and his unflinching fidelity in dealing with all the trusts which have been reposed in him, are qualities which win for him the esteem and support of his countrymen and render him one of the best living representatives of the people of America.

In General.

The Chicago Republican says "the National Labor Congress achieved a noble triumph over race and old Democratic prejudices by admitting colored delegates from negro labor unions in Baltimore and Philadelphia, and by not proscribing the Chinese who voluntarily immigrate to the United States. The credentials of the colored delegates were found correct, and they were admitted to seats without further question. And thus the world moves."

A neighboring Democratic journal which is much given to the propagation of trifling and unreliable reports, recently published an editorial which asserted that if the test oath is enforced in Virginia Gov. Walker will resign. The Richmond Dispatch notices this foolish rumor and scouts the idea of his resigning. It says that since his election he has risen to a higher place in the esteem and respect of those who knew him than he held before, and that he has no more idea of resigning than has the Blue Ridge of making a journey to the Suez canal, to be present at the opening thereof.

The death of Senator Fessenden, which is reported as certain, is an event which will seriously complicate Maine politics. Next week the annual election will take place in that State, and in case of Mr. Fessenden's death, the question of electing his successor will come up suddenly before the people. Already political affairs in Maine are much "mixed," and there are several tickets in the field. Besides the regular tickets of the two parties, the ultra prohibition men have a ticket, and in some counties a fourth ticket, supported by those who are making an issue in opposition to capital punishment, has been presented. The Senatorial question will now be brought in as another element of a contest, which, altogether is about as much "mixed" as any contest which has ever occurred in any State. The Republicans will doubtless triumph over all opposition, but we look for a reduction of their majorities by many thousands.

The Idaho Statesman alludes to an article in the OREGONIAN, in which we remarked that existing facts "show the supreme importance of our learning in Oregon as speedily as possible to depend on ourselves, and to look for marketing our products without relying entirely on San Francisco to take them and furnish the money for payment." The Statesman says of this remark: "The OREGONIAN has changed its tune, and had it set to new words. Eighteen months ago it gravely told the people of Portland, in a leader a column long, that San Francisco was a 'great city, and that Portland could well afford to be a tributary to so wealthy and powerful a metropolis.' We quote from memory, having lost the paper, but the above were very near the exact words, and the burden of the OREGONIAN'S song." We have to say that the OREGONIAN never made this remark which is attributed to it by the Idaho paper, nor anything like it. For five years we have been constantly urging the advantages of direct trade for Oregon; though we have never supposed that Oregon had power to destroy the paramount influence of San Francisco over the commerce of this coast, or that our State could entirely escape from that influence. We respectfully request the Statesman to consult the ninth commandment before attributing another remark like the above to the OREGONIAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 5—A meeting of the friends of Thos. H Selby, Mayor elect, took place at Congress Hall last night, and was called to order by D W. Over one thousand men were preceded by bands of music, fire works, etc., to Mr. Selby's residence, corner of Fremont and Harrison streets, where he was serenaded. A destructive fire broke out at 11 o'clock last night in a row of frame buildings on the east side of Dupont street, between Pacific and Broadway. B Dafray as a paint shop and the upper part by his family, No. 1106 was occupied by Victor as a barber shop. Adjoining this, No. 1108, was Wankerberg's saddlery shop and Openheimer's crockery store. These four buildings belonged to an estate of which Mr. O'Brien is agent. Nos. 1112 and 1114 were occupied one as a milliner store, the other as a jewelry store, and were owned by R.
